Purpose of Form

Use Form 5712-A, Election and Verification of the Cost Sharing or Profit Split Method Under Section 936(h)(5), to elect either the cost sharing or profit split method of computing taxable income for certain possession products, and to show that the corporation has a significant business presence in the possession by meeting either a direct labor test or a value added test. Also, if the corporation elects the profit split method, it must certify that the possession product was manufactured in the possession as defined in Regulations section 1.954-3(a)(4). Complete Form 5712-A for each possession product the corporation has elected either the cost sharing or profit split method of computing taxable income. Complete the form each year to determine if the corporation has a significant business presence in the possession. Attach Form 5712-A to Schedule P (Form 5735), Allocation of Income and Expenses Under Section 936(h)(5).

Intangible Property Income

Generally, intangible property income of a possessions corporation will be included in the income of its shareholders unless: (1) The shareholders are foreign persons or tax-exempt U.S. shareholders, OR (2) If any class of stock of the possessions corporation is traded on a securities market. See Regulations section 1.936-4 for more information.

Possession Product

"Possession Product" means an item of property which is the result of a manufacturing process. The term "product" includes component products, integrated products, and end-product forms. An affiliated group may establish reasonable groupings of possession products as a single product. New groupings may be established each year. The Commissioner may disallow any grouping that materially distorts income or the significant business presence test. See Regulations section 1.936-5(a) for more details.

Significant Business Presence in a Possession

The possessions corporation must establish that it had a "significant business presence" in the possession to elect the cost sharing or the profit split method. To qualify to use the cost sharing method, a direct labor test or a value added test must be met. To qualify to use the profit split method, either test must be met AND the possession product must be manufactured in the possession as defined in Regulations section 1.954-3(a)(4).

Extent of Election

Possessions corporations may elect to change from one method to the other only with the consent of the Commissioner.

However, certain exceptions apply. See Regulations section 1.936-7, Rev. Proc. 91-53, 1991-37 IRB 6.

Manufacturing in a Possession

The rules under Regulations section 1.954-3(a)(4) apply in determining if the possession product has been manufactured in a possession. Manufacturing has taken place if the:

1. Product has been substantially transformed by the possessions corporation in the possession;
2. Operations performed by the possessions corporation in the possession with respect to the property are substantial and are generally considered to constitute the manufacture or production of property; or
3. Conversion costs incurred by the possessions corporation in the possession, including direct labor, factory burden, testing of components before incorporation into an end product, and testing of the manufactured product before sales, are at least 20% of the total cost of goods sold of the possessions corporation. Packaging, repackaging, labeling, or minor assembly operation does not qualify as manufacturing.

Alternative Test

An alternative significant business presence test is available to possessions corporations that do not qualify under the direct labor or value added test. The alternative rule applies for any tax year. To qualify, the possessions corporation must meet a direct labor test and a combined direct labor and construction costs test. If the possessions corporation meets these tests, complete Part II.

Transitional Rules

Transitional rules apply to a possession product or service that was not produced or rendered in a possession on or before September 3, 1982. For qualified possessions corporations producing these products, the full requirements of the direct labor test and the value added test are phased in over a 3-year period. The 65% labor test is reduced to 35% in the first year, 45% in the second year, and 55% in the third year. The 25% value added test is reduced to 10% for the first year, 15% for the second year, and 20% for the third year.

Definitions

Direct labor.—This is labor associated with units of production. Basic compensation, overtime, holiday and vacation pay, shift differential, payroll taxes, contributions to unemployment benefit plans, and certain types of payments for sick leave are all part of direct labor if they can be associated with production. Direct labor costs are only those costs that are inventoriable under section 471.

Production costs.—These include direct labor costs and fixed and variable indirect production costs. Only those costs that are inventoriable under section 471 are qualified production costs.

Base period construction costs.—These costs are the average construction costs incurred by or on behalf of the possessions corporation for services in the possession during the current and preceding 4 tax years for section 1250 property. This property must be used to manufacture the product or to render the services in the possession, and must represent the original use of the section 1250 property. If the possessions corporation did not exist during any year or years in the base period, the total amount of base period construction costs for such year or years is zero.
